

---

MERE INTERPRETATIONS: A DEADLY ONE TO ALL THE HUMAN DISCOURSES

Dr. Pramod Ambadasrao Pawar

Assistant Professor & Head

Dept. of English & Director, IQAC

Sant Dnyaneshwar Mahavidyalaya, Soegaon,

Dist. Aurangabad MS INDIA

ABSTRACT

The critical reading is necessary to understand the text. The author has already produced the text. This is the reason why it is said that there is nothing behind it. This can only be said when the text has the absolute meaning and the signified is reached with all its singularity for all the discourses in the human sciences. The reading of the text can be reached to its destination through the theory of trans-deconstruction. There is everything outside the text, but one thing is clear that whatever is found in the text is outside and inside realities. Inside and outside truths are the same. The outside truth can be understood in a philosophical sense. However, a clear cut linguistic method helps the critic fathom the reality in parts. The relativity of the meaning is found in the text and the reality that lies outside the text can be had through the language as the best medium revelation.

KEYWORDS

Language, Interpretation, Text, Word, Meaning